Overview of the Test Kits

Jane Thurnell Read started making test kits for her own use in 1988. Other students and practitioners became interested in them, so she started making and selling them to these people. Over the years interest has grown so that now practitioners in Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Israel, Japan, New Zealand, South Korea, Sweden, Switzerland and the USA, use them as well as in the United Kingdom. The range consists of over 60 different kits. New ones are added from time to time as research and availability allow.

For people interested in food allergy testing there are five extensive food kits and two food additive test kits. There is also a food phenolic kit and two drinks (alcoholic) kits. Environmental allergens can cause serious problems for some people and a wide range of these can be found in the chemical and inhalant test kit, and industrial and environmental test kit 1,2 & 3. Moulds, pollens, animal hair etc. are covered in the two pollens kits. There is also a dental test kit containing many of the substances used routinely in dental work, and a fragrance kit which covers some of the most common fragrances used in perfumes, personal care products and household products.

Some people have problems with vitamins and minerals or with amino acids (the building blocks of protein). For these people the nutritional test kit, the common metals test kit, the element test kit and the amino acid test kit and are likely to be particularly useful.

Bacteria, viruses, fungi and parasites feature in six complementary test kits, giving a wide range of invasive organisms. The bacteria test kit is particularly appropriate for people who have serious, long-standing respiratory problems. This test kit includes many organisms that are commensals of the human body. This means that they are naturally present and are thought normally not to be harmful. However, for some people this is clearly not the case.

Although hormones, enzymes etc. are naturally occurring in the body, they can produce problems when the body does not adequately recognize them.

This can result in hormonal or enzyme imbalance and a myriad of health problems. There are several kits relevant for this: hormones, digestive enzymes and the various body biochemical test kits.

There are two homeopathic test kits and some flower and gem remedy test kits. These provide a low-cost way of establishing which remedies a client needs to take, and they can also be used as part of kinesiology procedures too.

There are 17 pathology/histology kits for the anatomical tissues as well diseases & disorders. Please read the comments about their use at the beginning of the pathology section in the manual. There is also a histology kit only containing all the healthy tissues from the 17 kits. Please be aware if you buy this kit and then subsequently buy any of the Histology/Pathology kits you will have a lot of duplicate vials.

The samples are in small glass vials. Glass is preferred because some people test unreliably through plastic. The Bach Flower test kit contains actual samples from one of the producers. The homeopathic test kits contain 2 tablets from a highly respected U.K. homeopathic supplier (Helios). These are in the potency 30C. The other samples are prepared radionically in the 30th homeopathic potency and so have (as far as we know) an indefinite shelf life.

The kits come in seal-easy plastic bags. Boxes/Containers are available at an extra cost. These can be ordered at the same time or separately.

Many of the test kits contain energy patterns in sterile-filtered water made up in homeopathic potencies generated using a homeopathic simulator. There are three main reasons for this. Food test kits, amino acids, essential oils etc. have a longer life in this form. The Maui essences are no longer made. Some of the Body Biochemicals have to be kept frozen, when not in the homeopathic form. The vials are 1-ml glass vials, approximately a third full, ample for testing purposes.

Storage

It is important to store these kits out of direct sunlight, away from strong smells (such as aromatherapy oils, herbs, etc.). We also recommend that they are stored away from magnets (in practice this means on opposite sides of the room except when they are being used). However, some practitioners use magnets in their testing procedures, and so far this has not caused any problem with the vials.

There are no problems about storing different kits in the same box, although you might want to organise them in a particular way to separate them for logical reasons.

Some people seem concerned about bacteria, parasite and similar vials in some way 'contaminating' other vials, because such vials have a 'bad' energy. This concern is completely unnecessary, and, in fact, labelling test kit vials as containing 'bad' or 'good' energies does not stand up to any scrutiny at all.

Homeopathic remedies are often made from lethal substances, e.g. snake venom or a highly toxic metal. A homeopathic remedy made from a 'benign' substance can cause much upset when used inappropriately. Many flower remedies are made from highly toxic material, e.g. monkshood or mistletoe.

Perhaps more importantly, viewing vials as 'bad' can lead you subconsciously to be nervous of using these vials, thus depriving clients of the most efficient way to help them.

The energy of these vials should not be viewed as 'good' or 'bad', but merely as 'appropriate' or 'inappropriate' at this time for this person.

Which Kits Should I Buy?

There are over 60 test kits and, if you bought them all, it would certainly be thousands of dollars. Occasionally people do this, but for most it is not an option. So the question often asked is: Which kits should I buy first? There's no single answer to this, but here some guidance by asking you questions:

What type of people are you working with?

If the answer is children, it is suggested you buy Food Additive A, Food Additive B and Vaccination kits. If you mainly work with women, the best kits to buy are probably Hormones and Body Biochemicals 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5.

What interests you?

There are probably lots of different ways to achieve the same results with people, even just thinking in terms of test kits. So, if you're fascinated by allergy problems, think about buying Food A, B and C, Food Additives A and B, Chemical and Inhalants, Industrial and Environmental 1 and 2, and the Fragrance Kit. (If you can't afford them all at once, we suggest you leave Food B and C till last, as it's relatively easy to get people to bring these sorts of samples in.) If you're interested in 'bugs', consider Parasites 1 and 2, Virus, Bacteria and Fungus 1 and 2. If you like working with flower remedies, check out Maui, and the Earth Energies.

Do you feel that some particular factor is crucial to good health?

If you feel that no matter what the problem, it's important to get nutrition sorted out, choose Digestive Enzymes, Nutrition 1 and the Common Metals Kits. If your training and reading emphasise the importance of Candida, you will probably want to buy the Fungus 1 kit, with 3 different types in it.

Are you drawn to a particular test kit?

Sometimes people say they feel drawn to a particular test kit without being able to explain why.

Alternatively you could buy the most popular kits. Here's the top ten all-time-favourite kits:

- Common Metals
- Pollens Dust & Moulds
- Hormones
- Vaccination
- Virus
- Food Additive A
- Food A
- Food B
- Digestive Enzymes

Lectins

Lectins are found in plants and milk. They are sticky and so interact with the lining of the throat and the digestive tract when we eat them. ### Mycotoxins

Mycotoxins are produced by moulds. One mould species may produce many different mycotoxins, and the same mycotoxin may be produced by several species.

Mycotoxins have the potential for both acute and chronic health effects via ingestion, skin contact, and inhalation. These toxins can enter the blood stream and the lymphatic system. They inhibit protein synthesis, damage macrophage systems, inhibit particle clearance of the lung, and increase sensitivity to bacterial endotoxin. There is evidence that they can cause cancers, kidney damage, gastro-intestinal disturbances, reproductive disorders and suppression of the immune system. 27 vials, $98

Neurotransmitters

Scientists have now identified some 60 different molecules that meet the criteria for being regarded as neurotransmitters, so this is inevitably a partial list, but covers the most useful or important ones; that affect breathing, digestion, mood and much else. All these vials are available in other kits (Body Biochemicals and Hormone and Amino Acids Test Kits). This kit simply brings the most important neurotransmitters together in one place. 13 vials, $47

Pesticides 3

More pesticides, including some used in the home and garden. Many of these pesticides have been shown on occasions to exceed their standard for maximum residue level in food within the European Community. ## What Customers Say About the Test Kits

"I am amazed at the invaluable help these test kits are to my practice. Thank you so much for putting them together and offering them to practitioners!" Kelley Charles, USA

"These kit are easily the best test kits I've ever used. The consistency of testing is superior to any other product (many) that I have previously tested. Jane should be congratulated for putting a superior product together. Thank God I don't have to use or make any other kits again." Dr Robert Peacock, Chiropractor, D.I.B.A.K., Developer of Chiropractic Ecology, Australia

"I have spent the last 2 months exhaustively doing blinded comparisons between the diagnostic testing procedures I have taught for years and some screening substances made by Life-Work Potential and found a very high percentage correlation. If anything, using those test vials are even a little more sensitive and accurate than my present methods. I was, to be honest, totally surprised and thrilled." Dr Michael Lebowitz, Colorado, USA

"The kits provide clear energy patterns of many substances which under normal circumstances are very difficult to obtain." Ann Parker, Derbyshire, England; HK teacher England & Australia

"The test kits are an integral part of my practise and I can't imagine how I would work without them. They are most certainly a contributing factor to my success rate." Franky Kossy, London, England; Health Kinesiology teacher England

"It is for nearly ten years now, that I use those basic test kits. They are comprehensive, covering more than 80% of demand occurring during my testing and energy work. And they are very effective because not only do they provide excellent pattern representations for thorough and precise testing. All of them are very likely to be needed. I rate them top, because effectiveness as a measure of proof shows they are really value for money."

Bernhard Caspar, Cologne, Germany

Energy Mismatch by Jane Thurnell-Read $22

Jane used to teach this information as a very successful one-day workshop since it was fundamental to her success as a therapist. The Energy Mismatch is a test to determine whether or not the energy system recognises or categorises correctly, a substance such as a food, bacteria or toxin. If the body categorises something as harmful that is beneficial, it will do its best to enhance absorption of the substance. If it categorises something beneficial as harmful, it will do its best to block entry or excrete the substance quickly.
